Best Practices I

Mahabhondala

Objective: Revival of age old social culture, traditions and heritage.

Explanation:

Mahabhondala is a typical Maharashtraian social tradition. But it is on the verge of dying in this age of remix. Our efforts to revive it are a very small step towards the preservation of our golden heritage.

Mahabhondala is specially meant for women community especially in the month of January on festive occasion. It is a kind of group dance in which folk songs are incorporated and recited. This mahabhondala is preceded by grand mahapuja of deities. Women and girls, in traditional apparels and festive appearance come together in big circles and perform traditional dances with recitation of folk songs.

In our Mahabhondala, more than two hundred girls participated and girls' mothers' were invited to witness their daughters' performances. Mothers' participation added cherry to the cake. This grand activity was followed by the hearty celebration Mothers' Day.

Best Practices II

Home Take Examination

Objective: To make students familiar with exam pattern.

Explanation:

In the present scenario semester pattern of examination is introduced at national level. Most of the learning hours of students are spent in university examinations and their preparation. So very little time students happen to have in their hands for study. Most of the students find themselves unable to follow the university patterns of examination. They lack behind in the race. College has taken initiative to introduce Home Take Examination to make students familiar with the university examination before facing them.
